Work of Gutenberg Auctioned at Great Price from Collection of Interest to Many Bibliophiles.

New York, April 2t.—Henry E. Huntington, nephew of the late Collis P. Huntington, paid $50,000 to-night for the famous Gutenberg Bible from the Robert Hoe collection, which is almost double the price ever paid for a book in the history of book dealing. The purchase was made at the auction sale of the Hoe collection, which began this afternoon at the Anderson auction rooms.

There were $60 persons present, an assemblage probably the most representative of prominent bibliophiles ever congregated in this country and perhaps in any country.

Men and women were there in about equal number, but with the exception of Miss Green, J. P. Morgan's librarian, and Mms. Belin, of France, the women did little bidding.

In the afternoon straion of three hours the sale total was $2,576.0. One dealer.

In the afternoon streion of three hours, the sale total was $23,970.50. One dealer. George D. Smith, bought $11,326 worth of books. He paid the highest price of the afternoon, $2,700, for a "De Civilate Decicitate de Augustinus." It was printed on vellum, about the fourth book printed in Venice, and was illuminated in gold by a Venetian artist in the year of its publication, $470.

The first book that brought more than $500 to-day was Aesop's Fables, in Latin, printed in $470 by Philipsus de Lavagns, A catalogue note said that neither the British Museum nor the Bodielan Library has a copy. For this one Walter M. Hill, TRAINED FOR LAW.

Judge Gary, as an intimate friend of P. Morgan and a man trained in legal procedure, was elected to that position at the organization of the trust. Training such as Judge Gary had was considered necessary, because in the first years of the trust its problems were of legal rather than a manufacturing nature.

Now, however, the controlling interests of the great corporation believe that toe organization and the conduct of the trust have been such as to make it legally per-fect. The wonderful executive force developed by Andrew Carnegle and taken over at organization has been scattered by death, resignation, and accumulation of superfluous wealth.

Those of the Carnegie men who have not left the trust lack incentive to do their best work, and the supreme minage-ment, having legal rather than manufacturing training, has proved unable to restore the efficiency of the executive staff. It has been found that in spite of the vast expenditures for improvements, the steel corporation is unable to get the best results out of its plants.

The smoke in the mine is stifling, and this greatly impedes the progress of time proportions. Independents are getworkers. Indianapolis, April 24.-A legal fight, attended with sharp words and evidence of bitter feeling, resulting from the arrest of John J. McNamara, began to-day when Leo Rappaport, attorney for the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, and F. M. Ryan, president of the organization, made an attempt to gain possession of books and papers taken by the police from the headquarters of the association Saturday night, and a counter-attempt by the police to obtain additional books of the association.

RESIST POLICE.

Asserting that the police who invaded he rooms had no legal right to the books and papers, Rappaport and Ryan first resisted the taking of the books Saturday night, and on Sunday afternoon they made repeated demands on Supt. Hyland for the books. The demands were refused with the statement that the doc uments were wanted for the grand jury which would take up an investigation o which would take up an investigation of the Von Spreckelson explosion in Indian-apolis, October 24, 1809.

Prosecutor Baker was called into the case and issued a subpoens for Hyland to appear with the books before the grand Jury to-day. This was shown to Bappa-port, who answered with a statement that, the books were legally in the custody of Judge Collins, on whose search warrant the books were legally in the case of the property of the prop said he wished Prosecutor Baker to be in court. Jurors to Investigate.

In a conference with the grand jury o-day Prosecutor Frank Baker advised the jurors to make a thorough investiga-tion of all available evidence which mightend to bring out the facts in relation to the guilt or innocence of any persons suspected of complicity in the alleged dynamite conspiracy which resulted in outrages, either in Indiana or elsewhere. Absolute fairness to all parties was counseled by Prosecutor Baker.
Gov. Marshall to-day assured F. M.
Ryan, president of the Structural Iron

In making the assurance the governor said he wished it understood that he was not criticizing Judge James A. Collins, of the Indianapolis City Court, for the court's actions Saturday evening.

ERECTORS ASSIST IN TRAILING MEN

Dynamiter's Description Is Found in Office Files.

New York, April 24.-One source from which the Los Angeles authorities and Detective William J. Burns gained a point in their hunt for the dynamiters was the National Erectors' Association, at 34 West Thirty-third street. This at 4 West Thirty-third street. This organization, in which several open shop exponents are affiliated, had been more than anxious to ket after the men responsible for a series of explosions and at various times the services of the Burns agency had been secured by its members. On January 16 of this year the Los Angeles authorities sent out from the district attorney's office as complete a description as could be made of the three men who had been seen around Sar Francisco Bay and rented the launch "Pastime."

Reference to the files of the association confirmed the idea that had started in the minds of several of the members when they read the description.

They sent word to Los Angeles that the man wanted was probably McNamara. An almost positive confirmation of this has since come from Los Angeles. Charles Wier, who is forgman of the present grand jury at Los Angeles, is at the Waldorf. This jury has been in session for four months and has had an unusually large amount of work to deal with.

Mr. Wier declined to make any comments on the big case which is now before the grand jury or to discuss the arrest of the three alleged conspirators. Bear Admiral Inch Buried.
